Cane With Interesting History-Mil-dred R. Weaver's Funeral-Baraca

class Election.

Edgar A. Ashby has a cane made from the many present. As a feature picture, the fine western picture entitled Across the Plains, heads the bill, and the stirring plot is filled with exciting moments among which may be mentioned the attack on the pioneer settlement by the redskins, and the capture of the women of the party, and the repulsing of the Indians by the scouting cavalry. In all these sertive scenes there appear whole tribes of genuine Sloux Indians, who make a stubborn fight to retain the prisoners and the wonderful flight across the plains, pursued by the cavalry, is a picture-sque scene, as well as the rescue of the imprisoned women. A delightful romance runs through the whole story, and it is altogether a handsome picture. The Biograph story this week is a powerfully dramatic one, and is most novel in its conception and delineation.

Some excellent vaudeville subjects are shown on the films for this week, while the fine voice of Miss Lillian Shuwny of Boston is heard to advantage in a preity concert song entitled Acrosight and in the illustrated song. The wasn't such a bad chap after all."
